

midPhase Services, Inc. adds new hosting plans, supporting multiple domains

Palatine, IL—September 22, 2003—Web hosting provider midPhase Services, Inc. (midphase.com) announced today the launch of "Pro-PHASE", a new web hosting package. Pro-PHASE is a hosting plan that has increased features over the current flag-ship plan, "Mega-PHASE".

"The Pro-PHASE package consists of more bandwidth than the Mega-PHASE plan, more disk space, and will support up to three domains," said Zak Boca, director of marketing and co-founder of midPhase. "Our Mega-PHASE package was our first offering, and earlier this month we announced the launch of our reseller plans, which is the first package of ours that supports multiple domains; however, we feel that there is still a very high demand amongst our visitors and customers to support multiple domains at a fraction of the costs of reseller plans. We are confident that the Pro-PHASE package will meet this demand, as the monthly rates will run only a few dollars more than our Mega-PHASE package."

The company said that the "Pro-PHASE" hosting plan will round off their product line, and will help provide a better feature set for their current customers as well as provide more options for future customers. "We feel very strongly that Pro-PHASE will be well accepted by both current and new customers," Zak said.
