

What Is An A Record

An A Record is used to point Internet traffic to an IP address. It is part of your zone file. For example, you can use an A record to designate subdomain.yourdomain.com to send your website visitors and web traffic to your website's IP address. You can also designate anothersubdomain.yourdomain.com to go to a separate IP address.

A records and zone files are how your website visitors find your domain without having to remember your IP address.

Related articles

Content by label

There is no content with the specified labels