

How To Modify Your Whois Information

The database that the TLD (.com, .org, etc) registries maintain need to be accurate in order for name resolution, billing, renewal notices and public records to be processed correctly. Typically modifications are required when nameservers need to change or the contacts change email or postal address or phone number. The procedures for modifying records will depend on the registry. Midphase uses Enom as their registrar. Most of this information will be public as the 'whois' information. You can purchase domain privacy to keep that information hidden at <https://chi.midphase.com> or by contacting our billing team through our online form at <http://www.midphase.com/support/>. If you wish to make changes to this information, our billing team can also assist.

Related articles

Content by label

There is no content with the specified labels

